A Focus on Energy Issues from the Australian and U.S. Perspective

Held as part of the national "G'Day USA Australia Week," Australian and American companies, regulatory officials, academics and business leaders will come together in Houston to discuss exciting breakthroughs in conventional and non-conventional technologies to address global energy challenges. The energy forum will focus on common challenges and opportunities facing America and Australia in the energy sector. It will explore strategies for exploiting risks and uncertainties, changes in the regulatory and investment landscape, new and emerging technologies and building a sustainable energy future.

Confirmed keynote speakers for 2010 include Richard Court, former Premier and Treasurer of Western Australia, Michael Ware, CNN reporter, Peter Beattie, former Premier, Queensland, Chuck Williamson, former CEO and Chairman, Unocal Corporation, and Bruce Vincent, IPAA Chairman and President of Swift Energy.

The discussion will focus on:

- A Changing View from Down Under and How it Affects Australian-American Energy Strategies
- The Next Frontier: Ultra Deep Projects and Hydrocarbons
- Australian LNG and North American Shale Gas – A Big Bet on Future Energy?
- Crisis in Context
- Energy: Opportunities, Investments, Innovations
- Balancing Policy and Opportunity
- Business Considerations Regarding Climate Change

Business development is a key part of the conference. Attendees will have the opportunity to make several business-to-business contacts and continue discussions following the conference.

Tickets - $199
